The pandemic's continued impact in 2021 wasn't enough to stop major deals in Birmingham's commercial real estate sector.

Deals ranged across all industries, whether it was multifamily homes, large company relocations, new leases signed, industrial parks and more. In addition, the crown jewel for Birmingham came in fall 2020 with the long-awaited Protective Stadium unveiling.

Commercial real estate projects in 2021 also spread across the metro. Deals dropped downtown and were found into the suburbs, including Irondale, McCalla and more.

In this special section, we are honoring the deals, projects, companies and people who embody the perseverance that was needed to get through the past two years of uncertainty.

Check out the winners in the slideshow below:

Our CRE Deals of the Year winners were chosen based on nominations received at BBJ.com in late 2021 and early 2022. Winners were selected based on several factors, including the size of the deal, its potential for future impact, the complexity of the deal and the deal's relationship to ongoing trends in the market.
